SEMI-WEEKLY KERNEL

THE KENTUCKY KERNEL

UNIVERSITY OF KENTUCKY

VOL. XXVII.

LEXINGTON, KENTUCKY, FRIDAY, JANUARY 8, 1937

NEW SERIES NO. 27

LOWER DIVISION CLASS OFFICERS TO BE APPOINTED

Councilmen Will Choose from List to be Submitted by Deans; Deadline Is Thursday

WILL PATROL ALL STUDENT DANCES

Council Will Use Full Power in Enforcing Rules At Hops

A plan whereby officers of the sophomore and freshman classes will be chosen in a regular class election was enacted by the Men's Student Council in a meeting held in Dean of Men T. T. Jones' office Wednesday afternoon. Patrolling of student dances by council men was also decided upon in the meeting.

Deans of colleges on the campus in which the two lower division class students are enrolled will be asked to choose two outstanding members of each class, one woman and one man, and the council will pick officers from the submitted names in a meeting scheduled to be held Thursday, Jan. 15.

Action was taken by the council because of charges of high-pressure politics which have reached councilmen. The new system is a radical departure from the customary system of elections, but it is thought will alleviate the political situation on the campus.

Disciplinary action against members of the student body who break rules at student dances will be taken by the council, it was decided. Council members will patrol dances and will bring before the body students guilty of infractions of conduct. The council, in such cases, has power to suspend or to "jerk" social privileges of offending students.

Alumni Reception Attended by 500 Basketball Fans

Approximately 500 alumni, students and friends of the University attended a reception sponsored by the Alumni Association following the Kentucky-Notre Dame game in Louisville Tuesday evening.

The affair was held in the Crystal ballroom of the Brown hotel. In the receiving line were Gov. A. B. Chandler, Lieut.-Gov. Keene Johnson, president of the Alumni association; Coach Adolph Rupp, Coach Chet Wynne, Coach Keogan of Notre Dame and R. K. Salyers, secretary of the association.

Tuberculin Tests Given to Seniors

Seniors graduating in February are now being given tuberculin tests by the department of hygiene at the University dispensary in Neville hall and testing of other students is now in progress.

The object of tuberculin tests is to discover latent chronic and acute cases of the disease in time, so that treatment may be given. The injection given is a protein derivative which reacts positively to the presence of tuberculous germs in the body.

McVEY SUMMARY IS BROADCAST

Resume of 1936 Events Included in President's Yearly Speech; Address Read by George Jesse

A summary of outstanding occurrences of the past year, covering international, national, state and University of Kentucky events, written by Pres. Frank L. McVey, was delivered Wednesday over radio station WLAP from 1:30 o'clock until 1:45 o'clock and over the University of Kentucky extension studios of WHAS from 2:15 o'clock until 2:30 o'clock. Dr. McVey was unable to be present, and the address was read by George Jesse, staff announcer.

In regard to state politics, President McVey enumerated achievements of Gov. A. B. Chandler and the present state administration, pointing out that reorganization of the state department had been accomplished, an audit of Kentucky finances made and the budget balanced. Dr. McVey credited the administration with operating within its income for the first time in 30 years.

Discussing national events, Dr. McVey mentioned the land-slide election of President Roosevelt, the re-election of Senator L. G. Canine, and various phases of federal lawmaking, as well as national-wide economic conditions. The King of England's abdication, war clouds in Europe, and the situation in the Orient were also topics of discussion. A brief section of the address was devoted to the progress of the University of Kentucky during the last year, including specifically the building program and "the absorption of effects of the depression."

New Construction Program Begins With Law Building

Construction of the Law building on the campus begun January 4, will be completed by August 10, according to the time limit stipulated in the contract awarded Gilson-Taylor, Inc., Lexington contractors, who were the low bidders on the project, officials in the college of Engineering said yesterday afternoon.

Other buildings of the Construction program will be completed by January 11, 1938, in order to comply with the provisions of the P. W. A. appropriation granted the University. Buildings included are the central heating plant now nearing completion, the projected science and Student Union buildings, the field house, and additional units of the Engineering Quadrangle.

Plans for the Science building are now in the initial stages of drafting, while a local architectural firm has not as yet sent the Student Union building plans to University officials for study and approval. All other plans were drawn or are being drawn by workers in the College of Engineering.

By confining costs to within three per cent of original estimates, the usual engineering accomplishment of staying within ten per cent of estimated costs is expected to be bettered on the construction of the central heating system and plant, and the engineering units now near completion.

'Cat Quintet Faces Fast Creighton Crew Tomorrow; Lose to Notre Dame Tuesday

Irish Team Conquers 'Cats By Heavy 41-28 Score; Walter Hodge Stars For Big Blue

STATE COMES BACK DURING SECOND HALF

Centenary and Michigan State UK Victims In Holiday Games

After a game but futile fight, the University of Kentucky basketball team went down before the brilliant playing of a strong Notre Dame quintet Tuesday night in a game played in the Jefferson county armory in Louisville, losing by a score of 41 to 28. The game was played before approximately 10,000 fans, many of whom were from Lexington and surrounding Blue Grass towns.

A charity toss by Ralph Carlisle, Kentucky forward, started the scoring and gave the Wildcats the lead for the only time during the evening. Johnny Moir, the Ramblers' All-American forward, soon tied the count with a free throw and the South Bend team was off, never to be threatened again.

Not since the Kentucky team which won the Southeastern crown in 1933 have Kentucky fans witnessed such speed and smoothness in handling the ball. Very few of the scoring attempts made by the South Bend outfit failed. Taking the ball on the center jump or off the blackboard, after a futile shot by a Kentucky player, the Notre Dame outfit would sweep down the floor and only relinquish the ball when they had scored.

Walter Hodge, Kentucky sophomore guard, turned in the best floor game of any of the Wildcats players. Playing an alert game, Hodge followed the ball closely and broke up many scoring attempts made by the Ramblers.

After trailing at the halfway mark 28 to 9, the Wildcats began their comeback attempt after the rest period. With somewhat changed tactics the Kentucky team outscored the South Benders 19 to 13 in the final frame but the margin the Ramblers had run up in the initial period was never seriously threatened. The closest the Big Blue team came to overhauling them was midway of the last half when the 'Cats came within 10 points for the Notre Dame team.

The outstanding player on the floor was Paul Nowak, the Ramblers' rangy pivot man. Besides being the high scorer of the game with 18 points, Nowak also held Thompson, Wildcat center, to four points before he was removed from the game via the personal foul route. Moir and Nowak are both outstanding candidates for All-American berths this season.

Hagan, who played before his home town crowd, was high scorer for Kentucky with eight points. Both he and Goforth, another Louisville boy who subbed at guard for the 'Cats, turned in good performances.

The car had been abandoned on a Louisville street.

U. K. TO PRESENT FAMOUS OPERA

Music Department To Stage "Robin Hood" January 14 At the Henry Clay High School Auditorium

Students of the University department of music, under the direction of Prof. Carl Lampert, will present the famous opera "Robin Hood," by Reginald DeKoven next Thursday evening at 8 o'clock in the auditorium of Henry Clay high school.

Sponsored by the music department, the staging and coaching will be under the supervision of Iva Dagley, Lexington soprano and instructor in music at the University during the absence of Miss Mildred Lewis who is on leave. The opera consists of three acts and will be staged in the costumes of the times as depicted in the play. The action of the opera is set in England during the Crusade period.

The University symphony orchestra will accompany the singers. Professor Lampert is director of the unit. Following is the cast which includes but one faculty member, John Lewis, Jr., (director of the University band and instructor in music):

Robert of Huntington (Robin Hood), Jesse Mountjoy; Sheriff of Nottingham, Harlowe Dean, Jr.; Sir Guy of Gisborne, Morton Potter; Little John, John Lewis, Jr.; Will Scarlett, Robert Dean, Jr.; Alan-a-Dale, Mary Evans; Friar Tuck, Palmer Evans; Lady Marian Fitzwalter, Katherine Park; Dame Durden, Margaret Greathouse; and Annabel, Delta Theta Jones.

It is the custom of the music department to present each year some outstanding musical work. Presentations of past years have included famous oratorios such as "The Messiah" and "Elijah." Leading parts are taken by music majors in the department and the chorus is made up of members of the men's and women's glee clubs.

All students attending the band and orchestra school must specialize on some wind or string instrument. Both beginners and experienced players may attend.

ADAMS ADDRESSES OHIO CONVENTION

Jesse E. Adams, professor of education at the University, addressed the 15th annual convention of the Ohio Educational Association at Columbus December 28.

Professor Adams stressed the importance of putting emphasis on the training for citizenship of pupils because "we lack woefully in international mindedness."

Professor Adams struck the keynote of his address when he said: "What we need is a broader outlook and a higher group consciousness; a feeling that what is best for the nation will in the long run prove best for the individual nations."

MANNING RETURNS TO POST

Dr. J. W. Manning, who has been director of the personnel efficiency department of the state government since its creation, will return to his duties with the political science department of the University in February following his resignation made recently to Gov. A. B. Chandler.

ALL-CAMPUS HOP
 9-12 TOMORROW
 ALUMNI GYM

Goforth and Hodge Due To Replace Donohue and Oppen In U. of K. Lineup

BATTLE TO START 8 P. M. IN ALUMNI GYM

Visitors Reputed to Be Better Team Than One That Faced Wildcats Last Year

The University of Kentucky basketball team will meet its third powerful foe within six days when they trot out onto the floor to play the Creighton quintet in the Alumni gymnasium tonight at 8 o'clock. Coach Adolph Rupp of the Wildcat team stated yesterday that there would be a big shake-up in the lineup of the squad. Jim Goforth who turned in such a good performance at the Notre Dame game in Louisville will replace Captain Warfield Donohue at one of the guard posts for the 'Cats. Coach Rupp was also pleased with the work of Jay Rice Walker and said that the former Blue Devil star would start the game in place of Thompson at the pivot post.

Sophomore Walter Hodge will be at the other guard post while Hagan and Carlisle will again start at the forward positions. All five of these players turned in good performances in the Notre Dame game. This quintet showed improvement in their handling of the ball in the stiff work-outs Coach Rupp held on Wednesday and Thursday.

The Creighton squad arrived in Lexington around noon yesterday and after a brief rest held a short workout in the Kentucky gym.

The Nebraskans come straight from a victory over a strong Washington University team. The Creighton team has played five games this season, winning three and dropping two. Their losses were to the powerful Ohio State and Minnesota quintets.

Coach Ernest Hickey of the Blue Jays brought nine men on the trip to Lexington. The squad is made up mostly of new material but is reputedly better than the team that split a two-game series with the 'Cats last season. Coach Hickey is undecided on the starting line-up.

Last year the Wildcats ran over the Nebraskans, 68 to 38, in the opening game but on the following night the Blue Jays came back to defeat the Kentuckians, 31 to 29. The present series with the Creighton team started in the 1933-'34 season when the teams split two games in a series played at Omaha. The Wildcats won both games played in Lexington in 1935.

In past meetings the two teams have had interesting series. Both quintets usually play a fast game in their first nights' meetings with everyone scoring freely. In their second meetings the play was usually slowed to a walk and the score held low. This season only one game will be played.

HERE SHALL THE KERNEL ALL STUDENT RIGHTS MAINTAIN

WISCONSIN'S WOE

Those interested in the advancement of academic liberty have been looking toward Madison, Wisconsin, where nestled comfortably in their easy chairs, the regents of the University of that state debate the fate of Dr. Glenn Frank, progressive president of that institution.

The charges against Doctor Frank, especially that of incompetence, hide a multiplicity of personal and political points, most of which, the situation being what it is, are not favorable to Frank.

There are some questions The Kernel would like to ask. Why does the question hang fire over such a long period of time, receiving all the while, tons of publicity, not entirely favorable, but publicity just the same? Last year, wasn't the athletic situation in regard to their football coach, almost parallel to this case?

Specifically, the charges against Frank, as listed by the president of the board of regents, are as follows: (1) He has mismanaged finances and is in general a poor administrator; (2) he has lost the confidence of the faculty and others with whom he must deal; (3) he has been lax and bungling in his executive action, showing an incapability to make decisions; (4) he has slighted university affairs to engage in speaking and writing of a nature not appropriate to his office, but for the purpose of enlarging his income; (5) he has permitted questionable expenditures of public money for his household expenses, over and above his salary, and (6) he has been out of contact with university affairs and has dodged executive responsibility.

Defenders of academic freedom might well bear in mind the fact that Glenn Frank is not to the political left of Governor LaFollette, but tends stoutly to his right. Such being the case, it becomes a somewhat fantastic situation when the president of a state university might be ousted because he embittered a governor more radical than the president of such an institution.

On the other hand, if as claimed, the state administration has never restricted Doctor Frank in his public utterances and writings, then the charge against the board of stifling academic freedom, may not be so serious after all.

The situation at Wisconsin is one that might easily be reenacted in any state educational institution. When the state administration and the university administration do not see eye to eye, the result is usually not favorable to the university. This does not mean, of course, that in such conflicts the state in question is wrong; it means, however, that whether it is right or wrong, it usually is in a position to take such action as it sees fit.

In this instance, all the facts are not known to outsiders. Thus, from an exterior point of view it appears that Doctor Frank is not getting an entirely fair trial. Glenn Frank might be incompetent, he may be guilty of every charge which has been placed against him, but the fact remains that, because the board of regents is working more of less "under wraps," unbiased outsiders are almost certain to come to the conclusion that political maneuvering is responsible for his impending dismissal. The arrival at such a conclusion would naturally lead to the conviction that academic freedom at Wisconsin, long noted for its successful maintenance of such a freedom, is being trampled under the feet of political pampers.

Entering into the year 1937, the people of the United States have just reason to pause and take stock of their national wealth, not measured in terms of monetary growth, but in terms of restored confidence and optimism.

Peace and prosperity should be synonymous. Far removed, at least geographically, from the European cauldron, we have indications of a new "era of good feeling" on this hemisphere—an era motivated by the spirit of the American people.

Not only by graceful interchange of courteous messages with South American governments, but by diligent cooperation with our neighbors in the All American Peace Conference at Buenos Aires, the Administration has shown a special anxiety to remove misunderstandings between our people and those living in the republics to the south of us.

Predictions about the course of industry and trade are not in order here. More important than any of these material things, highly important as they are, is the attitude with which America is preparing to face the unknown of 1937. Unless all the signs are misleading, this will be a spirit of hopefulness, of charity, of quickened humane instincts, of a desire to live peaceably with all men, and of illimitable pride in the achievements and prospects of our country. There are many things to deplore, but on the whole there is reason enough for all Americans to look forward with happy confidence to another twelve months of keeping step with the "glorious music of the American Union."

DON'T LOOK NOW, BUT—how the heck did January 5th get here so fast, anyway?

CAMPUSNICKERS:

"Don't tell me—I know! You had a wonderful Christmas, felt fine every minute, dined and wined at all the night spots and did everything you wanted to. Well, don't tell me about it!" (The greeting of the gal who spent Christmas in bed with the flu, to her annoyingly healthy roommate.)

"I can't understand why he's got that smug expression on his face. He looks like a cat that just swallowed a canary." (No wonder, my fine lady. He's thinking about his escapades during Christmas, about which you'll never know, because he lives so very far away, double-goody!)

"All I did was make a crack about the tie he was wearing, and he smacked me cold! He must be batty." (After all, how were you supposed to know that his best gal picked out that tie for his Christmas present, with her own itchy-bitsy hands, Heaven help him!)

"Wasn't it wonderful to be home for Christmas? And didn't you hate coming back? And don't you wish you could go right back again? And don't you despise the idea of cramming for exams? Wouldn't it be swell if you could see your mother now?" (The cheerful conversationalist helping the homesick freshman get over the blues with a few helpful and thought-provoking questions.)

DON'T YOU FEEL FUNNY—

1. When you think you're a sophisticated senior, and discover that you're as homesick as the freshmen are, after Christmas?

2. When you remember that term paper, all of a sudden?

3. When you remember final exams, just as suddenly?

Dr. L. H. Adams of the Carnegie Institution's geophysical laboratory says that the age of the earth, as estimated by measuring the amount of the radio-active element uranium which has broken down into lead is about 1,500,000,000 years.

This Campus
and
That World

By RALPH E. JOHNSON

IT SEEMS THAT I have been all wrong—women are not the cause of all men's troubles, but men themselves. They are in a decline, so say authors Thomas H. Huzzell and V. E. LeRoy in an article of their writing entitled, "The Decline of the Male," and published in the December issue of Scribner's.

That anonymous lady who took the Latins for such a ride in her "Lousy Lovers" effort in Esquire was a piker beside the vituperativeness of these two lusty fellows who beat a sour note that won't set right with the men, declined or not. The sub-heading to the title reads, "That today's world turns on a woman's word is the conclusion reached after a study of American novels, films, plays, advertisements—and man himself!"

These men authors are so definitely narrow in their views that I feel called upon to defend our sex against them—in an article that will be forthcoming. It must not be said of us, "Subduing the land has left him, not with a virile glow of power and confidence, but with debts, office worries, low vitality, bald head, eye-glasses, store teeth, halitosis, hernia, high blood pressure, constipation, can't-eat-this, can't-eat-that, weak muscles, fallen arches, corns, tobacco heart, abdominal-tosis, bunions, ingrowing toe nails—and the whole flabby works is dominated by a mother-fixation which raises hell with every virile impulse he possesses." That, my friends, is Messrs. Uzzell's and LeRoy's description of us. They have miss fired—that is a description of a middle-aged Wall Street broker, but not of America's young men. Just look at our football team—they are none of that!

Dear Students, have you ever spent a Christmas in Lexington? Did things smell bad around here when you got back? Well that was Lexington—it was dead. But by some miraculous happenstance life has returned to the old girl.

You don't know, if you go home Christmas, how much this little Blue Grass city depends on you students for its very life. A vacation resort town was never evacuated as rapidly. Inside of four hours after school let out this campus became a ghost campus, not a sound, not a soul—absolutely deserted. And vice versa, no summer resort town ever soaked up population as rapidly as does this campus as school comes into session once more. No town ever takes up the burden of "life going on" as easily as does this campus.

It's good to see you back! Yet, many of you return home sick—not glad to be here once more. A good time was had by all at home, but that good time came to a halt when you left home. It just isn't there any more—all used up. You have from now until Easter to store up another good time. It is the being away from home that makes Christmas and the other interludes so pleasant. It is the being away from home that makes it "Home, Sweet Home!"

Is it too late to harken back to the shopping that preceded the holidays? If not, there is a bit of life that might be described for you. A shopping crowd crushed through the aisles of the dime store. Bright-eyed kids gazed in awe at the brilliance of the gaudy things there imported from Japan to make little American kids happy, and to make little Japanese generals happy too. Into this crush, carried along by this stream of humanity, came a weebegone woman—not more than 20 years of age (but age in this type of women is difficult to ascertain)—carrying a less-than-a-year-old baby wrapped heavily in dirty blankets which flowed from this woman's arm like icicles from an eave. She was, oh, so dirty. Her shoes just were, and the heels almost not, with stockings to match. A poorest sort of coat, quite nondescript, was topped off by a hat, vintage of 1918.

Down one aisle, up the next, she passed. Her eyes, without expression of any sort, were set in the saddest sort of poker face. But it was that baby that interested me. It was carried in the oddest sort of way across her chest parallel to the ground. It made not a sound, nor stirred. Closer I came, and noted to my astonishment that this baby was contentedly nursing unmindful of the crowd, or of what its mother was doing—for I noticed at the same time that this woman was deftly helping herself to various articles along the counters.

Under the blind of a drooping blanket, that trailed along the counters as she pressed her way along, her one free hand was busy. In her wake was one less pair of stockings, one less here and one less there as the articles took up bode inside her coat. I thought, as life goes on "God helps those who help themselves!"

Strange in this economic system of ours is the sudden devaluation of a Christmas tree come Christmas day! Of all the inane expressions, this one takes the prize package, "Would you please pass me the salt, if I am not too inquisitive?"—Silly!

It is on the surface a public secret, so we might as well let the rest of you in on the fact that Al-phagham Martha Wood Lee has accepted the pin of ATO "Barney" Rapp in a hidden love. Its a lot of more fun to know.

Wouldn't the dean like to know the name of the girl who was being osculated by Paul Slaton while ambling lazily down Limestone in the little green Ford Tuesday afternoon? If she does find out you may "brier" off, Paul.

Ye former Kernelite Frank Bories is doing one swell job of feature writing on the Lexington (Ky.) Herald. Receiving compliments from all over central Kentucky which are justly deserved.

'Tis said that an Olympic champion would have been left in the wake, had he been running against Sigchi Bob Forsythe Monday when he say a big rat heading in his direction up on Maxwell street.

Booger Brown's most striking Xmas present was a load of buckshot smack in the face. He said it was the result of a ricochet but failed to mention her father's name.

SAE Donnie Irvine, noted Sour Mash artist, hit his big lick during the holidays and pinned Martha Hume, a little coltch girl from Le-Salle College, Boston.

Chio Lucy Anderson's quietitude on the campus may be due to extreme carefulness on her part but over in Paris there is a little high school basketball star that makes no effort to conceal his great love for her. In fact it is said that when she goes over to see him play the coach keeps him on the bench the entire game so he will be sure of having five men in the game.

We are sure it will be interesting to somebody besides me to know that digging up of the sod all over the campus is being done for a definite purpose. Professor Grehan says that the hard winter last year killed out a lot of the grass roots and that they are preparing to re-sow grass on the spots left barren. So now when we get all the new buildings erected, sometime in the next twenty years, there will be plenty of pretty green grass to decorate with.

The antics by the more playful college boys have been quite numerous since my advent here but the craziest took place last night. Having nothing more to do, ole Colonel Reid picked up a twelve-gauge double-barrelled shotgun last night, aimed it at a clock on the mantel of the Phidelt house and blew parts all over the house. Boys in the different rooms thereabouts hearing the roar and feeling the shaking of the house poured out all the windows thinking that the KA's had come over and set off a couple of bombs.

It looks as tho' someone is finally waking up around here or at least is making an effort in that direction. It's none other than the Trideltas who are attempting to persuade Joe Sanders to play for their formal 16th for a nominal sum. Here's hoping success is yours. Hasn't been a big time band in the gym since way back there in '92 when the Rho's has the Menifee county Ham Stringers down for a series of hops.

A while back a couple of coeds in New York university were not "getting around" as should be the case and so they devised the now famous "Kissing Strike" in order to attract a bit of attention. Fame spread and so did the strike. And now we hear that it is coming into its own here in Kentucky. Keeping up with the times, here are select interviews with exponents and opponents of the "down with osculation" movement.

Bob Forsythe — "Of course I'm against the strike! What fun would there be in life?"

Jane Pennington—"It has always been one of my policies. Therefore I am definitely in favor of it."

Caroline Quigley—"You can have just as good a time without kissing."

Gladys Dimock—"Aw, nuts."

The Kappa faction is a house divided against itself.

Pat Hamilton—"I can't join the strike, because I have nothing to strike for."

Betty Boyd — "Kissing? What's that?"

Then to the Chio house:
Betty Bruce Nunn—"I'm no hypocrite."

Now the triangular Trideltas:
Frances Woods — "Yes, and then no—Oh, well."

Helen Congleton — "Heck, I'm a strike breaker."

Mary Walker Flowers—"Me? I'll picket."

Our own idea as to what people would say if they were honest.

Tom Nichols — "Strike? No! Haven't I held every position on the campus?"

The Kappa house mother — "I don't know what the girls really think, but I have my own ideas about why those storm doors are put on each year."

John Bain Breckinridge — "What kissing strike?"

Clever, I'll say.

Shop Sights

By BETTY EARLE

No, ma'am, it's still not too late for New Year's resolutions! Well, we've made one, but the point is that we can't carry it out alone. We need your help. You see, we've resolved for you to be ultra-smart this season! Not that you aren't already, but you must be smart enough to know that you can be made still smarter! Style, style, style! That's the keynote of any feminine code!

Vogue says, "What makes a woman smart?" That's just what we're going to try to answer for you. No woman is really fashion-lazy. But right now comes the holiday season. We can't do that—spring is on her way! So meet her with open arms! Be just one step ahead of her!

A whole new picture of fashions and vogues is spreading out before you. Don't say, "Enie, meenie, miney mo" and pick whatever is laid in front of you. Select your models! Uniform things are passe. As usual, suits will be the foremost spring style note. Some have nipped-in waists, others fall about you like a regulation polo coat. You may have them in conservative types or as impudent and provocative as you like! But follow this maxim: Suit your personality (no pun intended).

Lovely unaffected drapery has arrived for afternoon attire. Through it all you see clever devices to make you ever more attractive. Necklines are looped; bodices curl into lengthy ends that twist about to encircle your waist; sleeves are cut on the bias to drape gracefully, but almost imperceptibly. And their best point is that they do not mar your smooth, chic silhouette.

Although the much discussed Edward will not be crowned, his brother will become "George VI, by the grace of God," etc. The Coronation is the motivating force behind many of our sprightly new ideas for clothes. Hence, our dazzling models for evening wear. Don't allow yours to portray you as straight-laced and severe. Skirts billow and flow about your ankles. Others trail your heels, falling from a low décolletage. Colors combine themselves with subtlety. A "Romantic Revival" is upon us! Match with it a scintillating, gala mood!

ARTICLE DISCUSSED

Higher education in the Netherlands was discussed by Dr. Henry Beaumont of the department of psychology in a recent article which appeared in the magazine "School and Society."

At the end of last year's basketball season, Kentucky was the champion of the Southeastern Conference, but later lost to Tennessee by a 39 to 28 score. Later Tennessee beat a powerful Alabama quintet to win the tournament and the championship. The year before, Kentucky was also beat out in the tournament after winning in the scheduled season contests. Louisiana took the title then.

The University of Nebraska had a powerful basketball team that averaged a point a minute for twenty consecutive games in the 1935-36 season. They scored a total of 828 points in the regular playing season and even in defeat they dropped their game 48 to 61 to Santa Clara, to still keep their scoring machine going. The leading Cornhusker scorer was George Wahluist, who tallied over 200 of the total 828 points.

Last year the Kentucky Wildcats were signed up for the most terrific schedule they had ever faced. They opened their basketball season with a 42 to 17 win over Georgetown, with Ralph Carlisle as high point man, just as he was Wednesday night when the 'Cats again met the Tigers again.

Pittsburgh's powerful Panthers hope to return to the coast again next year to play in the Rose Bowl classic. Their followers think that they will have a stronger club as this year's squad contained many outstanding sophomores.

Max Schmeling provided boxing its biggest upset in 1936 by knocking out Joe Louis last June 19 in the twelfth round.

Ossie Solem has been named head coach at Syracuse, succeeding Vic Hanson.

Alabama had the only major undefeated football team of the 1936 season. A tie with Tennessee was the only blot on their record.

The largest football crowd of the season, 104,000 saw the Navy lick the Army 7-0 at Philadelphia.

Notre Dame played before 500,000 persons in nine games, drawing more people than any other one football team.

"Slip" Madigan, of St. Mary's, by working on a percentage basis, makes more money than any other football coach.

The longest run made by a Southeastern player was by Stamphill, of Sewanee, who dashed 100 yards after recovering a Florida fumble.

Coach Robert Neyland, of the University of Tennessee, was the outstanding coach in the Southeastern Conference, according to a poll taken by the Nashville Banner from sport writers and coaches. Bernie Moore, Louisiana State, was second.

Max Schmeling and James J. Braddock, present world's heavyweight champion, will fight for the title on June 8. In the articles signed, Braddock can fight no exhibition bout with Joe Louis.

Jesse Owens, world's champion sprinter and broad jumper, has been voted the most outstanding athlete of 1936 in the A. P. poll.

The Green Bay Packers defeated the Boston Redskins 21 to 6 for the championship of the National Football League.

Joe Louis received approximately $20,000 for knocking out Eddie Simms after 18 seconds of action.

The Louisville Courier-Journal will conduct a Golden Gloves tournament for the benefit of amateurs in Kentucky and Southern Indiana. The winners here will be taken to Chicago for the National Golden Gloves championships.

When King Levinsky, boxer from Chicago, met Ray Steele, heavyweight wrestler, King took one punch and missed. Steele pinned him in 35 seconds.

Perhaps the greatest round in boxing history was the first round between Jack Dempsey and Luis Firpo—Firpo was down five times; Dempsey down once on his hands, and out of the ring later. Dempsey knocked out Firpo in the second round.

The largest paid admission crowd in history, 165,000 people, saw the 1936 Indianapolis Speedway races on Decoration Day.

Michigan's basketball team started its present season with a bang by winning their first game over Michigan Normal 61 to 12. This was a new high scoring record for the Wolverines on their home floor. They used thirteen men during their scoring spree with their six-foot nine-inch center and captain, John Gee, scoring 11 points to take high scoring honors.

After slapping aside five consecutive foes, Kentucky's Wildcats finally met their first defeat Tuesday night in the Louisville armory, when Notre Dame's rejuvenated Ramblers chalked up a 13-point victory for their second win over the 'Cats in as many years.

In the final analysis, it appeared that the local club was facing too classy an opponent, for that particular occasion at least. The Notre Dames had too much power, individually and collectively for Kentucky. Keogan's kids topped off their all-around performance by giving a "freezing" exhibition midway in the last half that was a beautiful display of skillful ball-handling.

Kentucky's slow-breaking offense was never effective against the ball hawking tactics of the Ramblers. The South Benders were able to jam the Wildcat plays from set-up positions time and again until the local lads must have become slightly discouraged.

Paul Nowak and Johnny Moir, both of All-America court calibre last year, demonstrated that their selection was no mistake, by their play against the 'Cats. Nowak was high scorer and generator of the Rambler offense while Moir was a constant threat. It was only the high-class guarding of Walter "Whirly" Hodge that kept Moir's scoring efforts to a minimum.

Hodge probably turned in the best floor game for Kentucky along with his purely defensive work. Red Hagan led the local scorers with eight counters, including spectacular shots from well out on the court.

Although the Blue boys staged a comeback in the final session and actually outscored the opposition in that period, yet Notre Dame was never in any actual danger.

There seemed to be little concerted scoring efforts among the 'Cats. When they had the ball they were somewhat uncertain and their hesitancy cost them several points. When the Irish grabbed the apple they headed goalward immediately and made the most of their opportunities.

The defeat by Notre Dame doesn't mean that the Wildcats are through for the season. In fact we would go so far as to say that they won't lose more than one other game for the remainder of the campaign. They should start on the comeback path against Creighton tonight in what should prove to be one of the best ball games of the home season.

AMERICAN ART ON DISPLAY

New Law Building Under Construction

In connection with awarding the contract for the Law building, a petition protesting against abandonment of the Georgian type of architecture, which is incorporated in Memorial hall, the University Training school, and Library buildings, was submitted by a group of persons to the Board of Commerce and was discussed by a committee of that body with University officials.

No charges were made in the original plans drafted by the College of Engineering because the University would have lost a $327,000 grant from the Public Works Administration if the time limit for beginning of construction, which was January 11, was not met.

Statements that at least five different architectural styles prevailed on the campus at present were made by officials of the College of Engineering in discussing the proposed change.

The Law building will be two stories in height and will be constructed of brick, with glass brick on the side to give indirect sunlight in the large law library and reading room. The building will be approximately 145 feet long and 80 feet wide, and in the shape of an "L."

The game was rough throughout. Eighteen personal fouls were called on Kentucky players while Notre Dame accumulated 12. Besides Thompson, Hagan, of Kentucky, was sent out on four personals as was Nowak, Notre Dame's star.

The Ramblers were superior in their foul shooting, making 15 good while Kentucky could only garner 10 points by this route.

The University of Kentucky basketball team ran their string of victories of five straight during the holidays with victories over Centenary and Michigan State.

In the Centenary game the 'Cats led by the slim margin of 19 to 12 at the rest period but came back to win, 37 to 19. Michigan State was leading 13 to 12 at the half in their game and the Big Blue team came back to win, 28 to 21.

the state welfare department, who talked on "Appearance of the First Slums and Their Effect on the American Standard of Living."

A banquet at the Lafayette hotel opened the evening session. Dr. Edward C. Elliot, president of Purdue University, discussed "Changes in Housing Through the Last Three Decades." Turning himself a specialist, and not an expert, Dr. Elliot discussed housing problems of the nation as a whole, telling of the difficulties and obstacles that confront pioneers in this phase of modern living. He summed up various problems of distribution and commented briefly on the acute need of "decent and livable" homes in the nation. Dr. Frank L. McVey presided at the meeting and introduced Dr. Elliot.

Thursday's meeting began at 10 a. m. and featured addresses by Hugh Meriwether, Lexington architect; Henry F. Kenney, on landscaping; Mrs. Frances Seeds, on furnishings and interior decorating; Howard Evans, on insulation and air conditioning; and Miss Mary Frances Haner, also on interior decorations. Seward Mott, chief of the land planning division of the Federal Housing Administration at Washington, delivered an address Thursday afternoon in the last session before an open forum at Memorial hall that night.

... Chesterfields are off on a new cruise.

"RUSH TEN THOUSAND CHESTERFIELDS TODAY'S CHINA CLIPPER."

At three o'clock that afternoon the Chesterfields were on their way. Four days later back came the message:

"CHESTERFIELDS JUST ARRIVED.
PANAIR WAKE."

When smokers find out the good things Chesterfields give them...
